Expanding Energy Efficiency Education & Exhibits

Creating a world class center for energy efficiency, in New York City, presents an opportunity for organizations, families, and individuals to demonstrate their commitment to combating climate change. Reducing our carbon footprint is the paramount challenge of our age, and buildings will play a critical role in creating a sustainable, resilient city.

With events regularly overflowing our capacity, the Building Energy Exchange has demonstrated the need for an objective venue for building decision makers and stakeholders to learn, see, discuss, and network. The Center's expansion will feature a 100+ seat classroom, interactive exhibit and technology demonstration spaces, and additional educational facilities.

The Founder's Circle recognizes donors that demonstrate leadership and commitment to New York City's future through supporting the completion of the BEEEx facility and leading the way toward effective climate action.
